Hodges Appointed To State Bar Special Committee

Posted December 16, 2011

Ashe Rafuse & Hill, LLP, partner Ken Hodges has been appointed to the State Bar of Georgia's Fair Market Practices Committee for 2012 by State Bar President Ken Shigley. This special committee seeks to protect consumers of legal services from false and misleading lawyer advertising and solicitation, develop recommendations for enhancement of rules, promote professionalism in the marketing of legal services, and improve enforcement of existing rules.

"I am honored to have the opportunity to serve the State Bar, its members and, ultimately, the consumers who are served by the legal profession," Hodges says. "I look forward to actively supporting the transparency and professionalism of our legal community."

Hodges is a partner in Ashe Rafuse & Hill's general litigation division, and was also recently appointed to the board of the Georgia Chamber of Commerce.

"Ken's talents and dedication - including and beyond his longtime service as a district attorney - have previously been recognized by the State Bar, and I am pleased that he will be part of this special committee," Shigley says, noting that in 2003
